Abraham Lincoln

The following description of the personal appearance of the late President is taken from a lecture on his life and character by the Hon. Wm. H. Herndon, for over twenty years his law partner. One feels, while reading it, that it is true to the life, and the image of the good man stands out in such bold relief as to seem like a present reality:

"Before I enter into an analysis of the character of Mr. Lincoln it becomes necessary first to hold up before your mind's eye the subject of such analysis and anatomy.

Abraham Lincoln was born in Hardin county, Kentucky, February 12th, 1809. He moved to Indiana in 1816, came to Illinois in March, 1830, to old Sangamon county in 1831, settling in New Salem—coming as a rude uncultivated boy, without polish or education, and having no friends. He was about six feet four in his high, and when he left was fifty one years old, having good health, and no gray hairs, or but few, in his head. He was thin, wiry, sinewy, raw boned, thin through the breast to the back, and narrow across the shoulders; standing, he leaned forward—was what may be called stoop-shouldered, inclining to the consumptive by build. His usual weight was 160 pounds. His organization—rather his structure and functions—worked slowly. His blood had to run a long distance from his heart to the extremities of his frame, and his nerve force had to travel through dry ground a long distance before his muscles were obedient to his will. His structure was loose and leathery; his body was shrunk and shriveled, having dark skin, dark hair—looking woe struck. The whole man, body and mind, worked slowly, creakingly, as if it needed oiling. Physically, he was a very powerful man, lifting with ease 400 to 600 pounds. His mind was like his body, and worked slowly but strongly. When he walked, he moved cautiously but firmly; his long arms and hands on them, hanging like giant's hands, swung down by his side. He walked with even tread, the inner side of his feet being parallel. He put the whole foot flat down on the ground at once, not landing on the heel. He likewise lifted his foot all at once, not rising from the toe, and hence he had no spring to his walk. He had the economy of fall and lift of foot, though he had no spring or apparent ease of motion in his tread. He walked undulatory up and down, catching and pocketing tire, weariness and pain, all up and down his person, preventing them from locating. The first opinion of a stranger, or a man who did not observe closely, was that his walk implied shrewdness, cunning—a tricky man; but his was the walk of caution and firmness. In sitting down on a common chair, he was no taller than ordinary men. His legs and arms were abnormally, unnaturally long, and in undue proportion to the balance of his body. It was only when he stood up that he loomed above other men.

Mr. Lincoln's head was long and tall from the base of the brain and from the eyebrows—the perspective faculties. His head ran backwards, his forehead rising as it ran back at a low angle, like Clay's, and unlike Webster's almost perpendicular. The size of his hat measured at the hatter's block was 7⅛, his head being from ear to ear, 6½ inches, and from the front to the back of the brain, 8 inches. Thus measured it was not below the medium size. His forehead was narrow, but high; his hair was dark, almost black, and lay floating where his fingers or the winds left it, piled up at random. His cheek bones were high, sharp and prominent; his eyebrows heavy and prominent; his jaws were long, upcurved and heavy; his nose was large, long and blunt, having the tip glowing in red and a little awry towards the right eye; his chin was long, sharp and upcurved; his eyebrows cropped out like a huge rock on the brow of a hill; his face was long, sallow and cadaverous, shrunk, shriveled, wrinkled and dry, having here and there a hair on its surface; his cheeks were leathery; his ears were large and ran out almost at right angles from his head, caused partly by heavy hats and partly by nature. His lower lip was thick, hanging and undercurved, while his chin reached for the lip upcurved; his neck was neat and trim, his head being well balanced on it; there was the lone mole on the right cheek, and Adam's apple on his throat.

Thus stood, walked, acted and looked Abraham Lincoln. He was not a pretty man by any means, nor was he an ugly one; he was a homely man, careless of his looks, plain looking and plain acting. He had no pomp, display or dignity so-called. He appeared simple in his carriage and bearing. He was a sad looking man; his melancholy dripped from him as he walked. His apparent gloom impressed his friends and created a sympathy for him—one means of his great success. He was gloomy, abstracted and joyous—rather humorous—by turns. I do not think he knew what real joy was for more than twenty three years.

Mr. Lincoln sometimes walked our streets cheerily—good humoredly, perhaps joyously—and then it was on meeting a friend, he cried, 'how d'y?' clasping one of his friend's hands in both of his, giving a good, hearty soul welcome. Sometimes he might be seen wending his way to his office—to the Court House, or to the railroad depot, with his baggage looking like a rail in broadcloth. Of a winter's morning he might be seen stalking and stilting it towards the market house, basket in arm, his old gray shawl wrapped around his neck, his little Willie or Tad running along at his heels asking a thousand little quick questions, which his father heard not, not even then knowing that little Willie or Tad was there, so abstracted was the father. When he met a friend he said that something put him in mind of a story which he heard in Indiana or elsewhere, and tell it he would, and there was no alternative but to listen.

Thus, I say, stood and walked and looked that singular man. He was odd, but when that grey eye and face and every feature were lit up by the inward soul in fires of emotion, then it was that all these apparently ugly features sprang into organs of beauty, or sunk themselves into a sea of inspiration that sometimes flooded his face. Sometimes it appeared to me that Lincoln's soul was just fresh from the presence of its creator."

GEN. SCHOFIELD'S MISSION.—The Paris (Dec 14th) correspondence of the Liverpool Journal gives the following as an explanation of Gen. Schofield's business in Europe:

The visit of the Yankee General to Europe has been so thoroughly sifted that we have discovered at length the real motive. It is nothing less than the purchase of one of the islands of the Archipelago, the one named Spezzia, the most important of the Sporades, admirably situated for the surveillance of both the European and Asiatic coast, and possessing the most splendid climate and every facility for the realization of the heart's desire of every patriotic Yankee—the formation of a marine depot, a port and a dock yard beneath the American flag, all protected by the stars and stripes. The island has hitherto been the resort of pirates, the very nest whence they spread the light wings of their tartanes and dart forth in pursuit of the little Turkish sloops, laden with merchandise, which ply between the two shores. This state of things will soon be changed under the American rule. The pirates themselves will be [illegible] their gains, and order and industry will [illegible] reign instead of the [illegible] Turks [illegible]. [illegible] this project [illegible] arrangement with the American Government has given up a terrible surprise [illegible] the realization of the famous threat which at one time appeared nothing but Yankee [illegible]. One foot on the American, the other on the Asiatic shore, and he can step over European heads to the conquest of the world.

NEWSPAPER [illegible].—We learn [illegible] the San Francisco [illegible] that [illegible] Pickering, long connected with the [illegible] of the Alta [illegible] of this city, has purchased [illegible] the interest of [illegible] James Nisbet [illegible] establishment [illegible] purchase was [illegible] the [illegible] Bulletin office. The new firm name is Pickering, Simonton and Fitch.

The [illegible] United States [illegible] received the sum of [illegible] from a beggar, as his [illegible] towards paying the national debt. That is more than any constitutional Democrat has given voluntarily.

The executor of Mr. Lincoln's estate reports that Lincoln left about $80,000—$74,000 of which is in [illegible] bonds. He left in Springfield about $5,000 with [illegible].

Foote's Neutrality Bill.

The following is a copy of the original resolutions introduced in the Confederate Congress, October 1st, 1862, recognizing the neutrality of California, Oregon and the Territories of Washington and Nevada. After this was to come a League offensive and defensive with this part of the world and the "C. S. A." The original of these resolutions (says the Stockton, Cal., Independent,) was picked up among the archives at Richmond, sent to Senator Conness, who sends the paper to us. The intense and firm loyalty manifested by California and Oregon, caused the resolutions to remain a dead letter, but, nevertheless, they are an excellent indorsement of Foote's loyalty to the C. S. A. Here they are:

[HOUSE BILL, NO. 3.]

HOUSE, October 1, 1862.—Read first and second times and referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs and ordered to be printed.—[By Mr. FOOTE.]

JOINT RESOLUTIONS

Recognizing the practical neutrality of the States of California and Oregon, and the Territories of Washington and Nevada, suggesting the advantages which would result to the people thereof, upon an immediate assertion, on their part, of their independence of the United States, and proposing, upon their so doing, the formation of a League, offensive and defensive, between said States and Territories and the Confederate States of America.

WHEREAS, during the pending war between the United States and the Confederate States of America, the good people of California and Oregon, and of the various Territories beyond the Rocky Mountains seem, in general, to have manifested but little disposition to take an active part in said war against their late fellow citizens of the slaveholding States of the South, influenced, as there is reason to believe, as well by a true regard for justice and humanity as by an enlightened sense of their own true policy; And whereas, It is most manifest that the day is not far distant when the people beyond the Rocky Mountains must inevitably become a separate and independent Republic, by force of circumstances of a geographical and permanent character impossible to be resisted, as was predicted by Mr. Jefferson before the close of the last century, and by other distinguished American statesmen, scarcely less sagacious, since that period; And whereas, It is obvious that the States and Territories alluded to, by at once asserting their independence of the Government of the United States, would realize great and inestimable advantages, among which may be reckoned the following: 1. Relief from the enormous taxation to which they are now subjected, amounting, annually, as is supposed, directly and indirectly, to the sum of fifteen millions of dollars; 2. The exclusive control and enjoyment of their mineral treasures; 3. A permanent monopoly of the navigation of the Pacific Ocean, and the commerce of China, Japan and the Indies; And whereas, It is well ascertained that far the most convenient route for communication by railway between the Pacific and Atlantic coasts, would be along a line extending through some half dozen or more of the most populous and wealthy States of this Confederacy, thus indicating a close commercial connection, in future, between the grand Confederacy which may be expected shortly to spring into existence along the Pacific slope of this continent and the States of this Confederacy. Therefore, be it Resolved, by the Congress of the Confederate States of America, That be appointed a committee on the part of the House, and — on the part of the Senate, empowered to draft a suitable address to the good people of California, Oregon and the Territories aforesaid, embodying the views herein presented, which adress, after being agreed upon and subscribed by said joint committee, on the part of the two Houses of Congress, shall be handed to the President, who, if he shall prove the same, shall be requested to transmit it to its proper place of destination, accompanied by such additional communication as he shall deem right and judicious at as early a period as practicable.

Resolved further, That it would be not at all improper to embody in said address a suggestion of the expediency of hereafter establishing a League, offensive and defensive, between the Confederate States of America and such of said States and Territories beyond the Rocky Mountains as shall determine to assert their separate independence, embodying such stipulations in regard to future commercial intercourse as might prove mutually advantageous to the parties thereto.

THE UNION MEN OF THE SOUTH.—We take the following suggestive paragraph from the report of Gen. Carl Shurz to the President on the state of affairs in the South.

It struck me, soon after my arrival in the South, that the known Unionists, I mean those who during the war had been to a certain extent identified with the national cause, were not in communion with the leading, social and political circles, and the further my observations extended, the clearer it became to me that their existence in the South was rather of a precarious nature. Already in Charleston my attention was called to the current talk among the people, that when they had the control of things once more in their own hands, and were no longer restrained by the presence of "Yankee" soldiers, men of Dr. Mackey's stamp would not be permitted to live there. At first I did not attach much importance to such reports. But as I proceeded through the country, I heard the same thing so frequently repeated, at so many different places, and by many different persons, that I could no longer look upon the apprehensions expressed to me by Unionists as entirely groundless. I found the same opinion entertained by most of our military commanders. Even Gov. Sharkey, in the course of a conversation I had with him in the presence of Major General Osterhaus, admitted that, if our troops were then withdrawn, the lives of northern men in Mississippi would not be safe.

SEVERE INDIAN FIGHT.—A severe fight recently took place in the Humboldt country, between the California volunteers and the Indians of that region. Every Indian engaged was killed. The Virginia City Enterprise publishes the following dispatch concerning the affair:

UNIONVILLE, January 17.—Captain Conrad, with Company B, Second California Cavalry, and a detachment of twenty-five men from Company I, same regiment, under command of Lieutenant Duncan, and eight citizens, had a battle on the morning of the 12th inst., with the Indians on Fish creek, about sixty five miles west of Paradise Valley. The Indians were prepared for battle, and made a desperate resistance. The battle continued fiercely for three hours. The Indians were commanded by Captain John. The Indians that killed Colonel McDermit—thirty five warriors—were left dead on the field. Seven soldiers were wounded, and twelve horses wounded and one killed. There were ten squaws captured, with their children. All their supplies were destroyed. The victory was complete. An Indian that came into camp next morning after the battle, says that every warrior engaged in the battle was either dead or mortally wounded, except one, and he was shot through the legs.

Undue importance is attached to the action of Congress in the Mormon difficulty, on the assumption that Mormonism is a religion, and cannot therefore be interfered with. But Mormonism is not a religion, as it is within the scope and province of Congress to ascertain. It is a gross imposition, and no more entitled to the name of religion than robbery or any other crime.

The Country wants True Peace.

Five years ago the Confederate Democracy wanted war. It might do for cowardly Yankees to plead for peace; but for the gallant chivalry, never. Yielding to the impulses of his insuppressible valor, the elated Confederate rushed to battle, as ardent as Diomedes and as implacable as the son of Peleus. Not more contempt had Moloch for the peaceful counsels of Belial, than the Confederate Democrat had for the timorous advice which would have restrained him from war. His brother Democrat in the North ministered to his rage and encouraged him for the fight. The Southern warrior burned for battle and the Northern Copperhead told him that as his "rights" were invaded, it was a wish worthy of a dastard to desire peace.

But a change has come over both the Confederate and his Northern ally. Both have become enthusiastic converts to the mild doctrines of peace. Both have made the discovery that war is inhuman and fiendish, and that even party animosity is a thing intensely wicked and deprecable. Therefore as they once chanted rhapsodies to the goddess Bellona, so now they have become votaries at the altars of gentle, meek eyed Peace.

So intense indeed has become their admiration of what they used to revile as the "coward's policy," that they now indulge in unceasing denunciation of the hostile spirit of the very persons whose desire for peace they awhile ago so furiously denounced and contemptuously despised.

They have now come to assert that the victors in our late struggle are determined not to have peace; that peace has never been the object aimed at. A strange asseveration for the chivalry to make concerning those whom they once complained of because they would scarcely be provoked to battle, and who on this account were regarded as nothing better than the veriest poltroons!

But is it true that the supporters of the Government and the friends of truth and progress do not desire peace? No truer than the calumniation so current years ago, that they were too cowardly to fight for their own rights and those of their fellow men. They want peace; but they do not want it on the programme of the ex-rebel politicians. They seek it through the triumph of loyalty, justice and right. As the late conflict of arms was the result of the studied practice of injustice toward a portion of our people; so the friends of liberty and justice feel that there can be no peace in the land until the rights of all alike shall be made secure.

We are told that the road to peace is plain and easy. The plan proposed is to hold the late rebels under restraint no longer. This way of obtaining peace is just as illusive as that which, though fairly and repeatedly tried before the war, yet failed to avert the conflict of arms. The Government has to deal with a people who stood up against its authority as long as they had power to resist. They did not voluntarily abandon the struggle. Most of them still tell us that they regret their failure, and mourn the loss of their scheme to obtain independence. They yielded to the relentless force of necessity, and are sorry for nothing except their final defeat. Now, if we were right in prosecuting the war to force these people to submission, we may justly dictate whatever terms are necessary for future security. We have the same right in one case as in the other. Moreover, the duty of insisting on restoration on such principles as will give future security to the country, is as binding as was the duty of continuing the war to put down armed opposition to the nation's authority. Therefore, it is because the country's true friends want a real peace that they do not consent to the restoration of the late rebel States on such conditions as they plainly foresee will, at no distant day cause a renewal of the mighty struggle.

The liberty of the late slaves must be secured. No system of labor obnoxious to conscience and equity, can be permitted to take the place of slavery. The authority of the Government in the insurrectionary States must be fortified so strongly that it cannot again be uptorn. The assumption of the rebel debts must be prevented. There must be no compensation, directly or indirectly, for the slaves whom the war set free. The danger which still threatens from these things is by no means small. The repudiation of our national debt is certain if the South shall soon gain political ascendancy. We do not want strife to continue, we would that partisan bitterness might be allayed. But we want every class of our people to be loyal to the Government and to practice justice toward their fellow-men. The country wants actual, abiding peace; not an arrangement which can last but a day or a year.

Boiler Explosions.—We do not remember that the explosion of steam boilers was ever so frequent as now. A considerable portion of our telegraphic reports consists of accounts of the explosion of locomotives and steamboats. The frequent occurrence of these accidents can be attributed to one single cause, viz—the carelessness of those who have charge of steam boilers. Experience has demonstrated that steam may be used with entire safety, and that care is all that is required to prevent accidents. In the New England States explosions of this kind are extremely rare; in Europe they are rarer still. This is owing to the superior care and perhaps, in some instances, to the superior skill of engineers. The general laws of mechanics are now so well understood that there should be no excuse for those through whose management most of these distressing casualties occur.

Another Copperhead Paper.—We are informed that Hicks & Bellinger formerly of the Review, intend to commence the publication of a paper at the Dalles in a short time. The paper will be issued daily and weekly. We are told—we know not how truly—that it is to be called the Vindicator. We suppose it will be a somewhat mild Copperhead journal—taking one side of Democratic principles as the Confederate Democrat takes the other—thus showing that "Democracy is always and everywhere the same."

Going to Montana

Our California exchanges make very frequent mention of the fact that large numbers of people are preparing to go the coming season from that State to the new mines of Montana. A [illegible] stampede of Californians similar to the Frazer river hegira [illegible] is [illegible] strongly threatened. The Stockton Independent thus speaks of the prevailing excitement for the Montana mines:

The reported mineral richness of Montana Territory is becoming the subject of such general comment throughout the State that many of the [illegible] are already [illegible] on the subject. Should the reports recently received from that [illegible] prove true [illegible] whether [illegible] true or not, there is little doubt that a large emigration will take place from this State during the approaching spring and early summer.

The Morning Call of San Francisco thus discourses upon the "tramp fever" which the stories about Montana are producing in that city:

It appears that our large floating population are again becoming afflicted with the tramp fever which begins to rage about the middle of February and expands for a month or two and finally wears itself out for want of material to feed upon. Montana is the haven this time, and if we are permitted to judge from the way people talk we should be justified in saying that many an one in San Francisco had an attack of the disease. Letters from pioneers to friends who stayed behind have been received containing the most glowing accounts and others who have come here to spend the winter and a portion of their "dust," declare that Montana offers inducements equal to California in '49, and that there is just as good a chance in that region for miners and prospectors as there ever has been, and that the country can not be duly prospected next season, no matter how many miners go there.

The Sacramento Union also notices the prevalence of the miners' "intermittent fever" throughout California. It says:

California was founded under the influence of a gold fever, and a large portion of her population including many who have abandoned mining and engaged in other pursuits remain predisposed to suffer periodical attacks. The premonitory symptoms, so familiar to those who have at last overcome the credulous tendency, are beginning to manifest themselves here and there once more. Somewhere about the headwaters of the Missouri where snow and ice establish a blockade for five months of the year, and bread and bacon and staples of daily fare, command such prices as will pay for transportation from seven hundred to a thousand miles through a wilderness—rich placers have been discovered and after one season of flush success, Montana sends her messengers east and west, to scatter their gold dust in the eyes of people who work hard and yet have not achieved a competence, and stir the vagrants of the Pacific coast to feverish adventure. This year we surmise, all the roads of emigration will lead to Montana, as all roads were said to lead to Rome.

Crowds of Montana adventurers will inevitably be disappointed, but it is undeniably true that the mines of that Territory promise much more than those of any other region since the days of California's golden glory.

Montana.—The Montana Radiator, of Jan 6th, says:

Our citizens have been laboring under heavy excitement for the past week, regarding some new discoveries on the Missouri river. From the information we have obtained in regard to these new fields of wealth, the diggings are located between Diamond City and Fort Benton, about forty miles from the first named place, and on the same side of the Missouri river. From a statement made by a gentleman who claims to be one of the discoverers, we are led to believe that, as yet, nothing has been found that would justify the stampede that is now taking place.

We have no doubt of the reliability of our information in regard to these mines. Our informant says that, owing to the severity of the weather, but little could be done in the way of prospecting; but sufficient prospects were obtained to induce himself and partners to locate claims.

In confirmation of the above, a Montana correspondent of the Salt Lake Vedette writes:

A big stampede is taking place from all parts to the new discoveries on Sun river. He says gold is found, paying $25 to the pan, extending a distance of one hundred miles.

Sun river rises opposite the sources of the Blackfoot, and joins the Missouri just below the Great Falls.

The Radiator says of the Sultana lode:

The runs of the Fisher Mill on quartz from this lode have been as follows: First week, eighty eight ounces retort, second week, seventy two ounces retort, third week, one hundred and twenty-three ounces retort, and after a run of thirty nine hours on the fourth week, ninety nine ounces were taken from the plates.

Sandwich Islands.—We have received Honolulu Advertisers up to the 23d of December. There is not much of general interest in them, though it would appear from discussions alluded to, that the British paper there is trying to induce the king to assert authority over the channels, between the islands, doubtless for the purpose of giving European powers an excuse for seizing some important station. These channels are from fifty to twenty miles wide and by the law of nations are public highways. See how the Royal Gazette insinuates its opinions:

"As to the jurisdiction of this Government over the channels between the Islands, I believe that the late Minister of Foreign Affairs, a number of years ago, in his official correspondence, laid claim to that jurisdiction, and which has never been denied by any of the great maritime powers."

The Advertiser complains bitterly of the practice of making cabinet officers of foreigners. It says:

"We feel on this subject as Hawaiians and as such we speak. The time has come when our chiefs and people should look for support and for their officers among the native born element, and those foreigners who choose to identify themselves with Hawaii and Hawaiians. It is full time that a period be put to the selection of foreign adventurers, who come here with the self conceited notion that there is no wisdom but what their brains possess, and who after courting princely favor seek to lord it over chiefs and people, as though they are the only persons capable of filling office or possessed of loyalty—a loyalty in too many cases measured by dollars and cents, which ceases when the pay ceases. Public sentiment on this subject is growing and must ere long command respect, if it does not now. The Government can be better administered with greater respect and credit to itself, and with truer loyalty to the king by the selection of Hawaiians to fill every public office, from that of a crown minister to a constable, than by picking up foreigners who chance to land on our shores, and who, like Micawber, are waiting for something to turn up."

Against Common Schools.—The following philippic against common schools emanates from a California editor. Such well defined outer [illegible] give unmistakable evidence that the author is a genuine Democrat:

"Mr Montgomery has attacked the common school system of this State and why should he not attack that system? Is it not one of the fountains of abolition corruption? Are not our children in them taught to despise the teachings of their parents? Are they not conducted for the most part by fanatics and infidels and filled with abolition tracts and heresies?"

The Confederate Democrat insists that a person who has been convicted of a felony in this State and served his time in the Penitentiary can [illegible] vote again at any election in Oregon. We [illegible] see why the Democrat should make mention of this matter. It is about the stupidest thing we ever knew O Meara to do. Why did he not stop to reflect that enforcement of this law would deprive his party of two or three dozen votes at the coming election?

A Copperhead paper complains that Secretary Seward closes his doors and will see no one save his intimate friends. The Secretary is probably afraid that some of his callers will prove to be Democratic assassins. The wounds lately inflicted on him are scarcely closed. He has reason to be wary.

A Copperhead paper calls the hundred working majority, in Congress, a "faction." Why is a mere question of power, the Union party could afford to admit at once the fifty eight Southern representatives and then have a respectable majority.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN]

DATES TO FEBRUARY 18.

The Rebel General Lee's Testimony

New York Feb 18.—A Washington [illegible] gives what purports to be the [illegible] Lee before the Reconstruction Committee. [illegible] and as far as he [illegible] opportunities [illegible] the people of Virginia had accepted [illegible] the war in good faith and were anxious [illegible] strict loyalty in the Union. [illegible] much stronger just after the close of the war than now, [illegible] for their apparent [illegible] [illegible] should be permitted to be represented in Congress. He declared that there was not a position to [illegible] freedmen well [illegible] their interests as well as for the sake of the whites. He expressed the hope that the Government might [illegible] for all time. He regarded the course of President Johnson and Grant toward the South as liberal and humane.

Fractional Currency.

Washington Feb 18.—During last week there was $100,000 in fractional currency [illegible] national banks at $50,000 [illegible] assistant Treasurers and others. There is still an urgent demand for more, especially in the Southern States. The printing bureau is instructed to issue [illegible] of all denominations until further orders.

Orders Respecting Disloyal Newspapers.

New York Feb 18.—The Herald's Washington special of the 17th says that the following circular letter to commanders of military departments was issued to day by Gen Grant:

Headquarters Armies United States, Washington Feb 17 1866.—You will please send to these headquarters as soon as practicable from time to time thereafter such copies of newspapers published in your departments as contain sentiments of disloyalty and hostility to the Government in any of its branches, and state whether such paper is habitual in its utterance of such sentiments. Persistence in the publication of articles calculated to keep up a hostility of feeling between the people of the different sections of the country cannot be tolerated. This information is called for with a view to their suppression which will be done from these headquarters only.

Fenian Demonstration.

New York Feb 18.—The Fenians of this city and Brooklyn to the number of twenty thousand, will parade in commemoration of St. Patrick's day.

Mexican News.

New York Feb 18.—The Herald's City of Mexico letter, dated February 21 says: The Imperial exchequer is almost exhausted. Where to replenish it is a question which is puzzling all the wise men of the Empire, but which no one can solve. The ministers are said to have confessed that the very existence of the government depends on the procurement of a loan of a hundred million of dollars, for which negotiations are being prosecuted in Paris. The annual revenue of the government from all sources is about twenty millions. The expenditures for the past year were forty two millions. It is hinted that if the Paris negotiations fail, a general forced loan will be resorted to. It is apprehended that this will lead to an uprising of the people. Lange Napoleon's agent, has accepted a position as Finance Minister in Maximilian's cabinet.

The present effective strength of the Imperial army is set down at twenty thousand.

Maximilian in a recent speech is said to have dwelt on the probability of the withdrawing of the French troops, owing to the opposition of the United States to their continuance in the country.

Between sixteen and seventeen thousand Mexicans, it is stated had been expatriated in accordance with the findings of the Imperial courts martial up to the end of December last.

A Vera Cruz letter of February 6th, says an American officer has recently recruited a large number of men for the Republican army in Vera Cruz. The French soldiers are said to manifest less desire now than formerly for a war with the United States. It was rumored that the Republicans had recaptured Monterey.

Foreign News.

Halifax Feb 16.—The Europa from Liverpool, February 3d, and Queenstown the 4th, has arrived.

A Lisbon telegram of the 1st reports the arrival of two American war steamers in the Tagus.

The English Parliament was opened by royal commission February 1st. The Lord Chancellor stated to the assembled members of both houses that as soon as the members were all sworn her Majesty would communicate her reasons for calling Parliament together. In the House of Commons, Denison was re-elected Speaker without opposition his conduct in the chair being warmly eulogized by the leaders of both sides of the House. Tributes to the memory of Palmerston were paid by the Speaker, Gladstone and D'Israeli. The formal proceedings were to be completed by February 6, in time for the delivery of the Queen's speech.

California News.

San Francisco, Feb 19.—A man named Wm Welch has been indicted and arrested as one of the parties who robbed the What Cheer House a few months ago. He was suspected at that time and has been under constant surveillance ever since, the police hoping to discover his associates in the robbery.

Mortimer Phelps and Estelle Mary Reed have commenced suit in the Twelfth District Court for a thirteenth of the famous Union Copper Mine at Copperopolis. The former claiming to one thirteenth and the latter to two thirteenths of the mine, separately, demanding $250 000 as their share due them from the profits of the mine.

The steamer Golden City took 500 passengers and $998,859 in treasure.

William Byatt, an English gardener, fell dead this morning.

Judge Tyler, an Attorney, recently arrested for practicing without a Federal license is about carrying the matter to the Supreme Court in order to test its legality.

O C Demorest, a young man, is confined in the station house a raving maniac, his insanity being caused by investigating the humbug of spiritualism and attending services of the Friends of Progress.

D Solomons has been arrested on charge of obtaining goods under false pretences.

We have no gold quotations from the East later than Friday last. Legal tenders are firm at 73 buying and 73½ selling price. The mining share market with few exceptions is weak.

The Supreme Court to day decided the case of the people vs Roldeschamper and Dean's. The Court holds the term marsh and tide lands in the act of 1861 not to include lands below low water mark and the grants below low water mark were not confirmed by that act.

Arrived—Steamer Fideliter a four days from Victoria. This vessel is the pioneer in the new line between Victoria and San Francisco.

Trook & Jennings.—H B Evans dropped in yesterday and made a brief report of this mine. The shaft is now down ninety feet and the lodge is assuming more regularity in width and richness at each step. He showed us a couple of specimens full of fine gold and silver, and donated us a beautiful one. The water is somewhat troublesome, and before it can be worked to the best advantage a tunnel must be run on the ledge. The company held a meeting on Thursday night most bers interchanged views and about concluded to erect a ten stamp mill if the lodge is not sold in a given time. So far as selling goes the company would not give a single cent to secure the sale at $250 per foot, and they are right.—Opdee [illegible]

BIOGRAPHY OF A NOTORIOUS CARD PLAYER.—Henry Pearl was arrested in this city [illegible] on the suspicion of being one of the [illegible] at Umatilla. [illegible] and he was [illegible] last trip of the Nevada. [illegible] Flag thus alludes to [illegible] a brief biography of the thief: About a year ago there occurred a scene in this city in which the [illegible] Spanish sports swindled a miner out of about $7,000 [illegible] deadfall on the corner of [illegible] street and Sullivan's Alley, while playing a game of cards. The then 'sucker' man was a Mr. Henry Pearl; the other three was a fellow from the country as [illegible] hands. They got the countryman [illegible] intoxicated and fought over his pile of gold. Mr. Pearl got the whole of it and left next day for parts unknown, and has been gone for a year. The men remaining were arrested, but no case could be made out. Yesterday Pearle returned on the steamer Sierra Nevada. After cruising about his old haunts for a while he concluded to pay a visit to the Olympic theater. While there the sight of old familiar faces recalled the happy bygone times and he became jubilant. In fact, noisy, and when Rhodes the "magnificent" came out, [illegible] he. Pearle asked him as a friend to grant him a [illegible] favor and sing a song entitled "In Auburn Jail," whether he gratified his friend or not was not stated, for two sly detectives, Ellis and Rose, quickly marched him off to a cell in the City Prison, where he remains, and as snug as a "Pearl in an oyster shell"—but a "Pearl" of little value, securely housed in the cell. It is doubtful whether anything can be done with him, as all the parties to the villainous transactions have long ago absconded. Their names were Manuel Torris and Cab Tobago. Pearle has been up in Oregon and returned, as has been stated, and had only been in the city about eight hours before he was nipped. It was a complete surprise, and he is at a loss what to do. He had only six bits in coin, but had on pretty good clothes and appeared to be enjoying himself hugely till the detectives came down upon him and marched him off, not to Auburn Jail, but to the City Prison.

THE BRITISH MAIL SUBSIDY.—As was stated last week a subsidy for carrying the mails between Victoria and San Francisco was awarded the Hudson Bay Company, and the steamer Labouchere is fitting for that purpose at $1,500 a trip, two trips to be made in each month for one year. The British Columbian Government have also agreed with Capt. Thorn of the steamer Active for carrying the mails between New Westminster and San [illegible]. The Government agrees to pay $2,000 per trip for the service, a trip to be made every twenty days, or oftener if possible, the Captain to suit his own convenience with regard to touching at Victoria either going or coming. The Active left New Westminster on the 13th, on her first trip under this arrangement. The old [illegible] is fitting for the trade to Portland, now that there is no means of communication here. This is the way to do. If Portland would drift with the tide of affairs which leads to fortune, her people must wake up and exert their [illegible] a little. We have hoped to induce our people to see the advantages to be gained by pursuing a liberal policy—but while California is straining every nerve, and the British Possessions are pursuing a policy [illegible] to aid them tons of thousands of dollars annually, and all sections about us—even little Vancouver—are working for a point, Portland does nothing. Instead of heeding the appeals put forth through this paper [illegible] men scoff at the idea, and ask us to buy [illegible], and say they do not want them. Tell us they will pay nothing to develop a region for the benefit of some [illegible]. Unless they do something soon we very much expect they will find themselves in the unpleasant [illegible] as that is related of Midas, the mythical King of Phrygia, who found himself after the great favor bestowed upon him by the God Bacchus, in a situation he had not anticipated. In his lust for gold he had forgotten the [illegible] dictates of prudence, and forfeited his [illegible].

[illegible] GRETNA GREEN.—The hard-hearted Solons of [illegible] Territory, whom people style law-makers, [illegible] to appropriate the insignificant sum of [illegible] the importation of women to their shores [illegible] New England, but absolutely went a step further and on the basis of "friendly legislation" abolished with one stroke the Gretna Green of the noble Pacific coast. The [illegible] of truant lovers from Oregon will soon be [illegible]. This unfeeling act relating to marriages will take effect on the 1st day of April. All-fools day will close forever the gates of the present pastors sought by fond hearts for the consummation of their desires. [illegible] that not a few are availing themselves of the [illegible] while it lasts to get married, in spite of the [illegible] dictation of our own State Legislature. Yesterday three couples went over by the steamer Phoenix [illegible], and are, ere this, according to their desires, made [illegible]

"Two souls with but a single thought,
Two hearts that beat as one."

[illegible] not be a bad suggestion for those who contemplate [illegible] to say that the present cheap rate of travel on the Willamette river, and the near approach of the time when the Gretna Green shall be no more, should be [illegible] for them to "hurry up the cakes."

[illegible] A NEW LEAF.—The following telegram was received by Capt. J. C. Ainsworth on Saturday last:

San Francisco, Feb. 12th, 1866.

J. C. Ainsworth:—Go on with Montana road subscription; raise five thousand dollars; Front street merchants [illegible] five thousand, and more if necessary.

S. G. REED.

[illegible] we are informed that San Francisco takes [illegible] with Portland in the opening of the route from the head of Pend d'Oreille Lake to Horse Prairie in [illegible] Territory, and it is deemed proper for us to make [illegible] effort in aid of the enterprise. The funds [illegible] by subscription in this city for the object, [illegible] it was deemed best to refund to the [illegible], which was accordingly done. There is no [illegible] of doubt but that Portland can and will be able now to contribute $5,000 for the purpose, which at all, [illegible] anything about it, must acknowledge [illegible] that will bring as many times the amount. The [illegible] will be well expended and inasmuch as San Francisco [illegible] have evinced a disposition to go with us, [illegible]. A meeting of the citizens and merchants [illegible] to-morrow at 11 o'clock, at the rooms of the Stock and Exchange Board, and it is desirable that as full an attendance as possible be present. There is now [illegible] hope than ever that the object will be accomplished.

[illegible] THE STEAMSHIPS.—The telegraph yesterday gave [illegible] encouragement to hope for a reduction of freight and [illegible] between this city and San Francisco. We [illegible] it can be carried, and made profitable to [illegible] for $6 per ton on this route, and passage ought not to be more than $25 for first cabin, while [illegible] at $12 50 would be considered extravagant. We hope the [illegible], the Idaho, and the new steamer "yet on the stocks," will meet a hearty reception from our citizens, if their presence here augments any good. Of one thing, we may feel some confidence at least; these new steamers will in a measure assist us in refusing the old tubs, which are destined at no distant day to become huge coffins for our fellow man. The California Steam Navigation Company is especially unscrupulous—it has been the worst luck that ever set upon a people, in its dealings with Oregon, and this company will make desperate effort to retain its grapple. We hope, however, that people will be prepared for the new era, and not [illegible] forget the past.

RECORDER'S COURT—HOFFMAN J., February 19th 1866—James Davis upon visiting the hole in the wall under Vaughn's building, known as the Mammoth Saloon, became pretty well inebriated, and kicked up a muss, which [illegible] him to appear in Court. In default of the grand cash wherewith to liquidate his fine he was sent to jail for two days.... James Murphy, another unfortunate, was served in a like manner. ...Wm Bright, a boy who has been frequently caught by the Police in small acts, was brought up for fighting in the street on [illegible]. As a corrective he was fined $5 and costs, which was paid by the father......Julius Stearns who was [illegible] the "bottom" of his saddle nag on Sunday, gave bonds for his appearance to-day.

LECTURE.—Our readers will remember the lecture this evening at the Methodist Church, by Dr Benson. Subject, "The War, the Evil and the Good." The theme is important and will be handled in an able and dispassionate [illegible].

EXAMINATION.—The semi-annual examination at the school Sixth street will take place on this day and continue [illegible]. The friends and guardians of the pupils are invited to attend.

PERSONAL.—Hon. Elwood Evans Secretary of Washington Territory, is at present in this city.

FINANCIAL SPECULATION.—The Nation says Mr. McCulloch's calculations as to the future tax paying power of the country are curious and interesting. They show that, supposing its wealth to increase in the future in the same ratio as in the past, the appropriation of about $200,000,000 a year to a sinking fund would begin at less than five per cent. of the revenue of the country, and end in 1900 at seven-tenths of one per cent. The Government charges in England began fifty years ago at 17 per cent. of the resources of the country; they are now only 11 per cent., and yet her debt is one-third greater than ours, her expenses double, and her production of wealth not nearly so rapid.

A correspondence in the Herald mentions that certain Spanish explorers—whom the correspondent met at Peru—have definitely settled the question of the source of the Amazon, as being in Lake Lauricocha, about 10° [illegible]0' south latitude and 70° 3[illegible] west longitude in the State of Bolivia.

A Nashville paper of Jan. 10th says: The Fisk Freedmen's school was dedicated yesterday. Speeches were made by General Fisk, Governor Brownlow and others. It is intended to be a free high school for colored children with accommodations for 1,000 to 1,500 pupils.

An Irish dragoon officer on hearing that his widowed mother had married since he quitted Ireland, exclaimed, "Murther! I hope she won't have a son older than me; if she does, I shall lose the estate."

The Democracy of Oregon are shortly to construct a new platform. Wonder if intercession for their great leader, Jeff Davis, will not be a principal feature in it?

Josh Billings says: I always advise short sermons, especially on a hot Sunday. If a minister cant strike ile in boreing 40 minutes, he has either got a poor gimblet, or else he is a boreing in the rong place.

The Fremont Mariposa Estate is to be sold for delinquent taxes on the 28th inst.

Letter from Forest Grove

FOREST GROVE, Feb. 8, 1866.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

We at the Grove still live and have our being, although it has now been a long time since the OREGONIAN has borne evidence of the fact in the shape of a communication from your humble correspondent. It is not from any disrespect of your paper or neglect on our part that I have not written for so long a time, but because events and items have not been of sufficient interest to warrant me in troubling you with a letter. Since last I wrote Professor [illegible] H[illegible] has arrived from the East and taken the chair of Natural Science in the University here. Professor H. is a graduate of Rutgers College, New Jersey. He comes well recommended and thus far has fully realized the hopes of the faculty and friends of the school.

THE COUNTRY

The agricultural prospects are promising for the coming season, and the farmers are expecting large returns from their fall and spring work. The last storm of snow and rain has left us without roads or bridges, indeed the roads have been so bad that the mail contractor failed for two weeks to pay us a visit.

THE [illegible]

Last night, February 7th, the senior and junior classes of the college delivered their quarterly orations in the Congregational Church in this place. They were able efforts, all of them, and well delivered. The speakers were Messrs. Ells, Durham, Watson, Walker and Bowlby.

THE SEMINARY

The Female Seminary here, under the control of Miss Porter, late of Boston, is well attended and ably conducted and gives promise of attaining a high rank among the schools of our new State.

The coming commencement day—the 4th of May next—will be a grand gala day at the Pacific University. Then she sends out into the world and becomes Alma Mater, to her second graduating class—small though that class be—only three in number—yet still a class that Dartmouth and Yale might well feel proud of. Then the Alumni Society of the State meets here. Then the "Gamma Sigmas" (the college Society) hold their great and first annual Jubilee. The best talent the State affords will be in attendance. Lectures, orations, valedictories and replies on the part of the college, and essays, declamations, good music, charades and tableaux, on the part of the Academy and Seminary, will be the order of the day.

The public will be invited to attend, and the friends and well wishers of education in particular. Nor is the enthusiasm confined to the schools alone, but it extends also to the people of the town who feel a true pride in them as the real ornament not only of their town, but of the whole State.

COSMOPOLITE

THE HOMICIDE AT EUGENE CITY.—The State Journal publishes the following account of the late homicide at Eugene City:

Last Saturday night, between 8 and 9 o'clock, Riley Deadmond, a notorious character of this county, was shot and almost instantly killed, in the old Long Tom saloon (which Deadmond formerly kept), on Willamette street, by Stephen Gardner, the present keeper of the place. The circumstances were as follows, as near as we have been able to ascertain them: Deadmond was under bonds to make his appearance at the Circuit Court, for having assaulted Jas. E. McCabe, with a knife, in this same saloon, two or three months ago. On Saturday he made some remarks which led to the belief that he was about to leave town, intimating that this would be his "last night here," and that perhaps there would be a "row in town," etc., or words of similar purport. A short time before the fatal affray occurred, he saw McCabe, the person above alluded to, on the street, and asked McCabe to go with him (Deadmond) over to the saloon, remarking that he expected to have "fun." After entering the saloon, he asked a boy to "take a drink," and on his refusing to do so he endeavored to force the lad to comply with his request. Gardner ordered him to let the boy alone, whereupon Deadmond seized a stool and came at him. Gardner retreated a little, and at the same time Deadmond put down the stool and went into another room and armed himself with a billiard cue, and again came at his antagonist brandishing the stick, and threatening that he would "make it warm for him." Gardner ordered him to stop, but he still advanced, and, when within six or eight feet, Gardner fired with a revolver, the ball cutting Deadmond's left wrist and then passing into the left side of his breast, near the heart, killing him almost instantly.

On Sunday morning an inquest was held on the body by Jeremiah Luckey, Coroner. The following persons served as jurors: C. Hackshaw, Wiley Sparks, Joseph Stevenson, Z. P. Sweet, C. B. Sweet, T. G. Hendricks. Dr. Sharples examined the body, and pronounced the wound sufficient to have caused immediate death. After an examination of witnesses the jury decided—

"That the said Riley Deadmond, on the evening of Saturday, 10th of February, 1866, about 9 o'clock, did receive a pistol wound at the hands of Stephen Gardner, which, from the testimony of a surgeon, after a proper examination of the body, did cause the death of said Riley Deadmond."

On Monday a preliminary examination was had, before Capt. E. A. Rice, Justice of the Peace, Dorris acting as counsel for the State, and Mitchell for the defendant. Gardner was discharged on the ground that the killing was an act of self-defense, and that there was no ground for further prosecution. Riley Deadmond was a brother to Henry Deadmond, who was executed at the Dalles about a year ago. He was considered a rough character, usually went armed, and had frequently made assaults on parties before; and it was generally expected that he would meet some violent end. So that, while the people of this quiet community were shocked and grieved at the fatal and disgraceful tragedy, they were not surprised. This is the third man killed in Eugene within the past four or five years—two of them caused directly by the whisky traffic, and the other by the vices which grow out of it. The first was Hugh Feney, murdered, as was supposed, by Mat Bla[illegible]oe, who was acquitted, and a saloon keeper, who was sent to the penitentiary. The next was Shirley, a penitentiary convict, killed nearly three years ago by S. Ellsworth, whose life he had threatened, and it is generally believed would have taken had not the homicide been committed. The present closes the sad record.

IMPORTATION OF COTTON MANUFACTURES.—The average value of foreign cotton manufactures of all kinds imported into the United States from 1821 to 1839 inclusive, amounted to $16,621,687, the highest amount having been nearly $18,000,000 in 1836, and the lowest about $6,500,000 in 1838. From 1840 to 1850, both inclusive, the average annual importation increased to $16,795,418, the yearly exportation of the same averaging $909,114. The average imports of the last three of those years were $28,811,960. These values, during the last period, consisted largely of piece goods from Great Britain, which has enormously increased her exports of cottons. Of plain white British calicoes alone our importations increased from 10,000,000 of yards in 1846 to 85,000,000 in 1856, and of printed or dyed calicoes from 14,640,000 in the former to 97,000,000 of yards in the latter year. In 1860 we received from that country altogether, 226,776,930 yards of cottons, of the declared real value of $3,840,910, but in the first two years of the war the quantity fell off to 74,680,537 yards in 1861, and 97,375,790 in 1862. The total value of cotton manufactures imported from all countries in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1862, was only 5,241,25[illegible].

ENCOUNTER WITH A PANTHER.—A young man named Hill, of South Granville, Washington county (N. Y.), had a singular encounter with a panther the other day while hunting for squirrels. His dog began barking at the mouth of a cave, and came out of the opening bleeding, as if having had a tussle with some animal. Hill determined to "see it out"—so he procured a lantern and ax and re-entered the cave. For fifteen feet he had to crawl. Then he was able to stand up. He proceeded fifty feet further, when he saw the eyes of an animal glaring at him. Hill poked in the gun, which the stranger seized in his mouth; he fired, the animal made a rush, but a blow with the hatchet finished him. The question then was to get him out. Dragging was practicable until he got to the narrow spot, when he had to call for help, and it required five or six to pull the captor and captive to the open air. It proved to the great astonishment of Hill, to be a panther six feet long. The hunter said he would rather fight rebels than undertake another such a job.

THE PROMISED REBEL HISTORY.—"General" Lee is said to have arranged with a New York house for the publication of his history of the rebellion, to be issued several months hence. It is stated that no alterations are to be made in his manuscript after it leaves his hands.

We'll bet a blind mule against a dozen Copperheads that he will not tell how many Union prisoners of war were systematically starved to death under his supervision; that because Justice has carried Robert E. Lee was not hung, that he'll establish as great a reputation for lying as he did for fighting, and that his book will furnish about as useful reading as the adventures of Don Quixote or the Baron Munchausen.—Y[illegible] Journal.

State Items

Mr. James Huddleston says the Eugene Journal, of this place, has lately returned from a two months residence in the Cascade mountains on the McKenzie river, some twenty five or thirty miles east of here, and about six miles west of Slate Creek, where he went with his family for the benefit of their health, and for the purpose of hunting. During the two months they were in the mountains Mr. Huddleston and a brother and Mr. Abraham Peck, spent a portion of the time in hunting and killed two hundred and [illegible]. It is hardly necessary to state that they represent game as being very abundant in that region. Their success is sufficient evidence of that fact. We doubt whether anybody can beat that hunting. They have over four hundred dried venison hams which they intend to send to Portland.

YAQUINA BAY.—The schooner [illegible] arrived at Yaquina Bay on the 1st inst. She was sixteen days off the bar in a very severe storm, waiting a favorable opportunity to cross the bar, having a boat stove and sustaining other slight damage. She brought part of a cargo of lumber from San Francisco for building purposes.

The State Journal says: "It is rumored that this community will be afflicted with a copperhead paper again, for a brief season, as soon as a ream or two of printing paper can be obtained. The old and familiar question, touching our supply of paper, which our 'big neighbor' used to propound with the utmost regularity, confirms the rumor and calls up vivid recollections of the only remaining 'land marks of Democracy.'"

The Methodists are holding a protracted meeting at Eugene City which has been in continuance three weeks.

Rev. William Monteith, of the Presbytery O. S. of Oregon, has been assigned to Salem and Pleasant Grove as his field of ministerial labor.

It is stated that during the continuance of the revival at Salem nearly one hundred and thirty persons have united with the several churches at which services have been held.

Rev. S. S. Knight has accepted a call from the Congregational Church at Oregon City, to remain as their pastor for another year.

In 1853 there were 400,764 Indians in the United States and Territories. In 1856 the number was estimated at but 307,806, of whom 61,500 are warriors. The Pawnees, twelve years ago a very formidable tribe, are now reduced to a few mere vagrant fragments, hanging around Council Bluff and Omaha begging their bread and whisky.

SIMPLE BUT EFFECTUAL.—The entire freedom from all deleterious ingredients renders "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Cough and Voice Lozenges, a safe remedy for the most delicate female, or youngest child, and has caused them to be held in the highest esteem by Singers and Public Speakers generally. In Coughs, Irritation of the Throat, caused by Cold or unusual exertion of the vocal organs, in speaking in public or singing, they produce the most beneficial results.

Money Order Office, P. O. Department.
This Office has been designated as a MONEY ORDER OFFICE and is now prepared to furnish Orders from one to thirty dollars on any Money Order Office in the United States.
E. O. RANDALL, P. M.
Portland, Oregon, Feb. 12 1866.

The specific object of the Money Order system is to afford facilities for the safe transfer through the mails of small sums of money, so as to prevent as far as possible the loss of money letters, which contain generally but small sums. For this reason the maximum amount of a money order is limited by law to thirty dollars. It is not to be hoped that this system shall assume the functions and fees with the business of Banks and of Bankers, by furnishing exchange for large sums of money. The mode by which safety is secured consists in leaving out of the order the name of the payee or party for whom the money is intended. In this respect the money order differs from an ordinary bank check.

An advice or notification containing full particulars of the order is transmitted by the issuing Postmaster to the Postmaster at the office of payment. The latter is thus furnished before the order itself can be presented, with the necessary information to detect fraud if any should be attempted—thus insuring the transfer of small sums of money without danger of loss.

For particulars see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. Stamp unmutilated over the cork with plantation scene and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle or selling any other material therein whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

WISTAR'S BALSAM
—OF—
HAS BEEN USED FOR NEARLY HALF A CENTURY,
WITH THE MOST ASTONISHING SUCCESS IN CURING
Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Croup, Liver Complaint, Bronchitis, Difficulty of Breathing, Asthma, and every affection of the THROAT, LUNGS, AND CHEST
INCLUDING EVEN CONSUMPTION.

There is scarcely one individual in the community who wholly escapes, during a season, from some one, however slightly developed, of the above symptoms—a neglect of which might lead to the last named, and most to be dreaded [illegible] in the whole catalogue. The power of "medicinal gum" of the Wild Cherry Tree over this class of complaints is well known; so great is the good it has performed, and so great the popularity it has acquired.

In this preparation, besides the virtues of [illegible], there are commingled with it other ingredients of like value, thus increasing its value ten fold, and forming a Remedy whose power to soothe, to heal, to relieve, and to cure disease, exists in no other medicine yet discovered.

The unequalled success that has attended the application of this medicine in all cases of

has induced many physicians of high standing to employ it in their practice, some of whom advise us of the fact under their own signatures. We have space only for the names of a few of these:—

Waiting by the Gate

Beside a massive gate built up in years gone by,
Upon whose top the clouds in eternal shadow lie,
While streams the evening sunshine on quiet wood and lea,
I stand and calmly wait till the hinges turn for me.

Behold the portals open, and o'er the threshold now
There steps a weary one with a pale and furrowed brow;
His count of years is full, his allotted task is wrought;
He passes to his rest from a place that needs him not.

Again the hinges turn, and a youth, departing, throws
A look of longing backward and sorrowfully goes;
A blooming maid unbinding the roses from her hair,
Moves mournfully away from amidst the young and fair.

Oh! glory of our race that so suddenly decays!
Oh! crimson flush of morning that darkens as we gaze!
Oh! breath of summer blossoms that on the breathless air
Scatters a moment's sweetness, and flies we know not where!

I grieve for life's bright promise, just shown and then withdrawn,
But still the sun shines round me, the evening birds sing on,
And I again am soothed, and, beside the ancient gate,
In this soft evening sunlight, I calmly stand and wait.

Once more the gates are opened; an infant group go out,
The sweet smile quenched forever, and stilled the sprightly shout.
Oh! frail, frail tree of life, that upon the greensward strews
Its fair young buds unopened, with every wind that blows!

So come from every region to enter, side by side,
The strong and faint of spirit, the meek and men of pride.
Steps of earth's great and mighty, between those pillars gray,
And prints of little feet, mark the dust along the way.

I mark the joy, the terror; yet these, within my heart,
Can neither wake the dread, nor the longing to depart;
And in the sunshine streaming on quiet wood and lea,
I stand and calmly wait till the hinges turn for me.

Alleged Revival of Slavery in Mexico.

The Washington Chronicle publishes a correspondence, communicated by the President to Congress, touching some regulations of Maximilian concerning labor in Mexico. Those regulations were made in reference to a decree relative to immigration into Mexico, one article of which is as follows:

ART. 6. Immigrants who may desire to bring laborers with them, or induce them to come in considerable numbers, of any race whatever, are authorized to do so; but these laborers will be subject to special protective regulations.

The regulations are as follows:

REGULATIONS.

Under article 6 of the foregoing decree we ordain as follows:

1. Under the laws of the empire all persons of color are free by the mere act of their touching Mexican territory.

2. They shall make contracts with the employer who has engaged or may engage them, by which such employer shall bind himself to feed, clothe and lodge them, and give them medical attendance, and also pay them a sum of money according to whatever agreements they may enter into with them. Moreover, he shall deposit in the savings' bank herein mentioned, for the benefit of the laborer, a sum equivalent to one-fourth of his wages. The laborer shall, on his part, obligate himself to his employer to perform the labor for which he is employed for a term of, not less than five or more than ten years.

3. The employer shall bind himself to support the children of his laborers. In the event of the [illegible]'s death, the employer will be regarded as the guardian of the children, and they will remain in his service until they become of age, on the same terms as those agreed on by their father.

4. Each laborer shall receive a book certified by the local authority, in which book his description, the statement of his place of labor, and a certificate of his life and habits, will be entered. In case of a change of employer, the consent of his former employer shall be entered in this book.

5. In case of the death of the employer, his heirs, or whoever may acquire the estate, shall be bound to the laborer in the same manner in which such employer was, and the laborer on his part shall be bound toward such proprietor on the same terms as in his former contract.

6. In case of desertion, the laborer, when arrested, shall be placed without pay on public works until his employer presents himself to claim him.

7. In case of any injustice by the employer towards the laborer, he shall be brought before a magistrate.

8. Special Police Commissioners will watch over the execution of these regulations, and officially prosecute all violators thereof.

9. A savings bank will be established by the Government for the following objects:

10. The employers shall deposit in said bank, every month, for the benefit of the laborers, a sum equivalent to one-fourth of the wages which each is entitled to under contract of employment.

11. The laborers can deposit, in addition, in the savings bank, in money, such sums as they may desire.

12. These deposits shall bear interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum.

13. At the end of his engagement, and on presentation of his book, the laborer shall receive the [illegible] of his savings.

14. If at the end of his engagement the laborer wishes to leave his money in the savings bank, he can then receive the interest accrued; or if he wishes to leave this also, it will be added to his capital, and also draw interest.

15. In case a laborer shall die intestate, or without heirs, his property shall pass to the Treasury of the Government.

Given at Chapultepec, on the 5th day of September.

MAXIMILIAN.

This decree and the accompanying regulations were submitted to the United States Attorney General for the legal opinion upon them of that officer. His opinion may be found in the following statement:

Notwithstanding the broad declaration in the first regulation, that all men of color are free by the fact alone of having trod on Mexican territory, it is manifest that in the subsequent regulations a grinding and odious form of slavery is sought to be established.

Slavery is a law by which one man has the dominion over the conduct of another, either for a specified time or for life.

The law of slavery makes the man a mere machine, controlled and guided by another. The slave has but little sense of his own and no use of the noble qualities of his mind. The physical man is alone of value to the master or patron, and he, of course, looks only to the physical wants of the slave.

That the regulations make slaves of working-men and their families is evident:

1st. They are required to sell themselves for not less than five nor more than ten years.

2d. They are required by law, no matter how circumstances may change, or things may occur that were not reasonably within the contemplation of the parties, to specifically fulfill the engagement.

3d. They must execute every work to which they shall be set by their patron during that time.

4th. They cannot feed, clothe, lodge, or take care of themselves, either in health or in sickness.

5th. They cannot provide for the sustenance of their children, nor educate them, unless by permission of the patron; and in case of death their children become the slaves of the patron until their majority.

6th. The patron or master can sell or dispose of them to whom he pleases.

7th. They may complain to the police of the harsh treatment of their master, but have no right to petition for or seek a change of any law which may be regarded as oppressive or unjust to them or to their class or country.

8th. If the police refuse to hear their complaints, or hearing, deny interference, they are without redress.

9th. These regulations contemplate that the working men require physical comforts only; their minds must remain uncultivated, their morals neglected, and their religious training not cared for.

10th. There is no provision by which the working man can purchase himself or his time; or release and improve the condition of his children.

11th. What is to become of the working man and his children after he shall have faithfully served his term is not provided. Is he to be a free citizen, or is he still to be regarded as a working man, and again compelled to sell himself and his family?

I have no hesitation in saying that these regulations constitute a law which deprives working men of rights which we in this country regard, and which in every well-organized community should be regarded as inestimable, inalienable and indestructible and certainly makes them slaves. The history of this country, and particularly the history of the troubles from which we are just emerging, shows that no society can be organized permanently and remain at peace within its own borders, and with the outside world, where these great and important rights are denied to any considerable class of men.

SOMETHING NEW.—The Keokuk (Iowa) Constitution says: A canal boat propelled by steam arrived at our levee yesterday, direct from Chicago, and will proceed from here to several of the cities and towns up the river. This is the first steamboat, we believe, that ever came through from Chicago to the Upper Mississippi, and proves conclusively that direct water communication between the lakes and the Mississippi river, by steamboats, can be readily accomplished.

THREE HEROES OF VIRGINIA.—Mr Pollard, Mr Tyler and Mr Coleman, three journalists of Richmond have taken upon themselves to illustrate by their conduct the superiority of the civilization under which they were educated over the snivelling Puritanism of Boston and Massachusetts. The canting fanatics who edit the newspapers of that region are reported to treat each other with the courtesy which, in that unenlightened land is supposed to be becoming to gentlemen and the result is, of course, an intolerable tameness and scarcity of local paragraphs.

But they manage these things better in Richmond. Mr Pollard who edits the Examiner eschews all isms, and sets his face steadily against all innovations. He spells honor with a u and public with a k. His paper is the representative of the "old school of Virginia gentlemen." Nor are Messieurs Tyler and Coleman who conduct the Enquirer, a whit behind save only in the matter of orthography in which we regret to observe, they seem inclined to yield to the revolutionary spirit which rules the hour. It appears that these chivalrous gentlemen are not altogether unmindful of the value of current funds, dispensed from the public treasury, but they enter upon the discussion of their claims in a manner which is refreshingly unlike the mode of Psalm-singing Bostonians. Mr Tyler as manager of the Enquirer, has, it seems, for a long time had the benefit of the State printing. Mr Pollard calls him the "Unquestionable Gent"—which, we ought to explain, is a play upon the name Nathaniel—and charges that he has fattened upon plunder filched from Virginia, Federal and Confederate, and that he now proposes to continue to swindle her in her chaotic condition.

The U G according to the Examiner—or perhaps we should say Examinour—being an expectant applicant for the State printing has provided himself, not with types, presses, and all that, but with the "one man in the State of Virginia who knows how to certify a public printer's account to the auditor in such a manner as to obtain an allowance of ten dollars for work worth one dollar." Thereupon the Enquirer calls H P R a liar. Next scene: The three and a Mr Marshall meet in the hall of the capitol. Mr P indulges in some profanity, and denounces the U G as a scoundrel, H R P. uplifts his cane, the U G draws a pistol; all hands follow suit, six shots are fired—just two a piece—but whether equally distributed or not, the report in the Republican does not state. "During the firing," as we learn from the same source, "the parties were manœuvering for positions around the statue of Washington which stands in the rotunda."

Glorious chivalry! Three gentlemen of undoubted F F V. extraction, educated in the highest order of Virginia knighthood, familiar with the code of honor, and with the gaieties of the tournament, having a squabble over the division of the rags of a seedy beggar and the few dimes he may have picked up, and settle the difference with pistols, but regardful of their precious lives to the public and their families, they are not forgetful of the art of strategy. Puritan, fanatical Boston should be provided with the picture of the Three Heroes of Richmond, dodging about the statue of the Father of his country, firing shots at each other from safe defensive works, each successful in escaping harm, but bringing down nothing more valuable than the tassel of the cane of the graven image. Oh! glorious chivalry of Virginia, model for ingenious youth!—Washington Republican.

THE ASTORS.—The blood of the Astors, with the single exception of that which courses in the veins of our wealthiest citizen, seems to have become strangely vitiated. Wm. B. Astor is a living monument to the "old man," and in many respects is even smarter than his father. But the rest of the family are not celebrated for their possession of brains, and even their blood must be of a much poorer quality than that of old John Jacob. Riding down town in a horse car a few days ago, I saw the par excellence fool of the family; the poor, demented son of the great Astor, who has lived, I should judge, through sixty years of nothingness, to be a cipher still. Accompanying him was his physician and guardian, who lives, eats, walks, rides and sleeps with him; a man also well advanced in years, but unlike his patient, possessed of the ordinary share of this world's knowledge. The latter has for many years lived "in clover," under an annual income of $3,000, and expenses. A nice little position one would say, and yet it has its annoyances. Even a large sum of money would hardly induce many of us to live such a life—harnessed, as it would almost seem, to a corpse. The "crazy" Astor has, however, a mild and placable character, is easily amused, and not particularly troublesome to his keeper. They reside in a fine, large house in Fourteenth street, occupying a considerable portion of the block between Ninth and Tenth avenues, and surrounded by trees and gardens, and may be frequently seen on pleasant days taking an airing.

Mr. Astor is not very fond of society, seeming generally to find more gratification in his own ideas, (if he has any), and those of the persons immediately attached to him. Occasionally, however, ladies are permitted to call upon him, and for a while he brightens up, and for the time being proves himself as much a man as any of us. Such visits are not of long duration, and ere they are over the poor fellow subsides into his usual condition. He does not look as if he would be a trouble to his relatives much longer.—Cor. of Alta.

THE STANDARD
AMERICAN BILLIARD TABLES!

AND COMBINATION CUSHIONS

MESSRS. PHELAN & COLLENDER

WOULD RESPECTFULLY CALL THE ATTENTION of persons wanting Billiard Tables to the great superiority of the above tables, manufactured exclusively at their establishment.

At the Billiard Congress of 1863 composed of all the first class players of America, it was unanimously resolved that tables of our manufacture should be used at all matches for the Championship, as the best and only reliable tables.

These Billiard Tables have received the unqualified approval of the best players and most competent judges who have universally pronounced them unequaled for general excellence and durability.

Seven distinct patents for improvements in Billiard Tables have been granted to us by the United States Patent Office, and we have lately obtained a Patent from the French Government, for our improvement in Billiard Cushions.

We employ, in the construction of our tables a variety of machines specially made for the purpose, by means of which we are enabled to insure a scientific and mechanical accuracy hitherto unknown in Billiard manufacture.

Having a long experience and thorough knowledge of all the appliances of Billiards, and constantly on hand a large stock of the best and most thoroughly seasoned materials, we are prepared to furnish everything required in the billiard line with unprecedented dispatch.

The eminent French Billiard Player, M Berger has published the following opinion:

"NEW YORK, 2d August, 1861.

"On the eve of leaving the United States, I am happy to declare to all amateurs of Billiards that after a tour of eleven months through the principal cities, I have been enabled to judge in a satisfactory manner of the superiority of the Billiard Tables manufactured by Phelan & Collender. The system of manufacturing is so superior, that I am happy to introduce their style of cushion into France. They have united to their manufacture of American Billiard Tables that of the French Tables, of remarkable excellence and beauty. For these reasons, I am happy to make this declaration.

"BERGER, CLAUDIUS,
Prof. of Billiards, Paris."

Parties ordering from us will find our prices as low as good work can possibly be made for. We sell first-class articles at a fair price, and will not make an inferior article at any price.

General Remarks.

Revenue stamps may be used indiscriminately upon any of the matters or things enumerated in Schedule B, except proprietary and playing card stamps, for which a special use has been provided.

Postage stamps cannot be used in payment of the duty chargeable on instruments.

It is the duty of the maker of an instrument to affix and cancel the stamp required thereon. If he neglects to do so the party for whose use it is made may stamp it before it is used; but in no case can it be legally used without a stamp. An instrument subject to stamp duty, but issued and used unstamped, prior to August 1 1864, may be rendered valid by stamping it as required by section 163 of the Act of June 30 1864; if issued since, the conditions in section 158 of said Act as amended by the Act of March 3 1865.

Suits are commenced in many States by other process than by writ, viz: summons, warrant, publication, petition, &c., in which cases these, as the original processes, severally require stamps.

The jurat of an affidavit, taken before a justice of the peace notary public, or other officer duly authorized to take affidavits is held to be a certificate, and subject to a stamp duty of five cents, except when taken in suits or legal proceedings.

Certificates of Loan, in which there shall appear any written or printed evidence of an amount of money to be paid on demand or at a time designated, are subject to stamp duty as "Promissory Notes."

The assignment of a mortgage is subject to the same stamp duty as that imposed upon the original instrument, that is to say, for every sum of five hundred dollars, or any fractional part thereof, of the amount secured by the mortgage at the time of its assignment, there must be affixed a stamp or stamps denoting a duty of fifty cents.

When two or more persons join in the execution of an instrument, the stamp to which the instrument is liable under the law, may be affixed and cancelled by either of them.

In conveyances of real estate the law provides that the stamp affixed must answer to the value of the estate or interest conveyed.

No stamp is required on any warrant of attorney accompanying a bond or note when such bond or note has affixed thereto the stamp or stamps denoting the duty required; and whenever any bond or note is secured by mortgage, but one stamp duty is required on such papers, such stamp duty being the highest rate required for such instruments or either of them. In such case a note or memorandum of the value or denomination of the stamp affixed should be made upon the margin or in the acknowledgment of the instrument which is not stamped.

LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO GREAT NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

the best bargain in the city. I make this statement to show the public what kind of a man he must be to
